

www.nationalALD.org

Read More About:

- Member Benefits
- Scholarships
- Community Service & Engagement
- Leadership & Career Development
- Exclusive Discounts and Perks
- ALD's Legitimacy

How To Join

To become a member of ALD, you must meet the following requirements: 3.5+ GPA your first term with full-time enrollment at an institution with an active chapter. Chapters may raise the minimum GPA and/or require top 20%.

Membership into ALD is by invitation only. Check with your campus to see when invitations are sent.

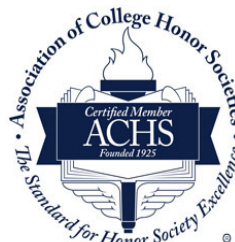

Contact ALD

www.nationalald.org
ald@nationalald.org
@nationalald

Nationally Certified Honor Society

ALD has proudly been a member of the Association of College Honor Societies since 1939, and has obtained the highest honor, a Platinum Seal for Transparency, through GuideStar.

Alpha Lambda Delta

The Honor Society for First-Year Academic Success

Taking You From First Year To Career

See What Our Members Have To Say...

“My experience with my ALD chapter has always been more than just the honors and the graduation cord. Being inducted into ALD renewed a sense of pride in myself that I did not know was lost when I first entered college.”

- Han Hong Cao, Dickinson College

“As a freshman, I was skeptical about honor societies as I had been a member of multiple high school honor societies that never benefited me on a personal or career level. However, when I was presented with the opportunity to join ALD, I found myself enthusiastic at the thought of joining because of the chapter’s core values and limitless opportunities for leadership, mentorship, service, and networking.”

- Youssef Souryal, Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis

“Alpha Lambda Delta has transformed me into a leader, a selfless individual, and a great communicator throughout my college experience. Being a sophomore and going into a leadership role was quite an adjustment; there were multiple instances I felt lost. However, with time and a wonderful group of officers, I discovered my leadership potential.”

- Katherine Zerit, University of Memphis

“My first semester of college was terrifying. Moving all the way across the state to live with a bunch of people I did not know brewed a recipe for disaster. I knew that I had to get involved with a group or club, but I just could not find the right fit until I received my invitation letter from ALD. Walking into the induction ceremony I knew this organization was something special.”

- Michael Sekich, Western Michigan University

“Since I would not be living on campus, I worried about not making friends and being a part of activities. I not only met new people, but made some of the most amazing friends who have made me feel loved and like an important aspect of something. I have gotten the college experience that I craved in an unexpected, but even better way through ALD.”

- Judy Nanaw, George Mason University

We know what it’s like to be new on campus. Setting yourself apart can be challenging among other high achieving students. Alpha Lambda Delta provides a community of scholars, a platform to develop your leadership skills, and financial support through scholarships and educational partners. We have been guiding students to academic and career success for nearly 100 years – accept membership and jumpstart your journey.

